Lockout

HALF-DAY COURSE

Locking out prevents incident – it is that simple.

More than 600,000 Canadians are injured on the job each year – and nearly 75 per cent of them are employed in physical labour-driven industries.

Many of these workers suffer injuries because of improperly locked out machinery or equipment. At the end of this course you will have the tools to ensure you're not one of them.

The Basics & The Benefits

When workplace equipment is not properly shut down and locked out it can result in many kinds of trauma – paralysis, respiratory failure, broken bones, crushed limbs and death are all possibilities.

Safety Services Canada has designed a certification-grade course that furthers understanding of and ability to properly complete lockout. It touches on four main topics:

- Lockout procedures and requirements
- Legal requirements
- Setting up an energy control program
- Implementing an energy control program

The course stresses the importance of locking out machinery and equipment as safety measures, as well as the dangers of hazardous energy.

The main goal is to emphasize lockout as everyone's responsibility.

Safety Services Canada implements its training programs with collaboration from each of its eight provincial members. Together, the service providers create insightful, certified programs to keep Canadians safe – at work, at home, on the road and at play.
